

Consolation Table Rules

The Consolation Table rules are primarily the same as the rules for the main game except for the following.

1. Table must consist of at least 4 Players to earn points. The game may be started with less than 4 Players but will not count until the 4th Player joins in. When the 4th Player joins in chips should be redistributed in an equal amount to each Player.
2. Chip amounts are 20 white chips & 15 red chips or a value of $500 in chips.
3. Players can join in at any time up until the end of play for the main game.
4. Players can not share or pass chips amongst eachother or have someone else play their hand while away from the table. Once again a reminder that the rules are the same as the main game. If these situations arise then the game will be deemed invalid & void.
5. Anyone can play in the Consolation Table whether they played in the main game or not. Also Players who made the Final Table can play but are not eligible for points from the Consolation Table. If someone from the Final Table wins the Consolation Table, nobody gets points.
6. Once the main game is over the Consolation Table has to end. The Player with the most chips then earns points.
7. If the main game has 30 or more Players, the Consolation Table is worth 10 points. If the main game has less than 30 Players, the Consolation Table is worth 5 points.
